

I do not believe that this is the wisest course, as we have already seen problems with monolithic companies created in the wake of deregulation like Clear Channel, which, despite the apologies heard here and there, has been a disaster for diversity and quality in America.